President's Message

Dear Colleagues,

With the arrival of September, the LA Chapter Board of Directors has held its organizational kick off planning meeting. We're excited to move forward with identified goals, which include improving communications with members, and meeting with candidates to better inform them on their road towards accreditation. We also have a number of relevant educational programs planned throughout the year, including our

January 22, 2014 meeting with UCLA Anderson Forecast Senior Economist Jerry Nickelsburg. [\[more...\]](#)

Greetings ASA Chapters from ASA-CA (your legislative liaisons)

Greetings from the desk of the Chair of ASA-CA

Well, Summer is on us and nearly over – the Lazy Hazy Crazy Days of Summer also brings out interesting subject matter in Sacramento and Washington DC. We've read the headlines regarding some of the puzzling things our legislators think are life or death matters – but way down below all the attention getting headlines may be matters which could affect our profession as valuers. In The News

Valuation of Michael Jackson's Estate Challenged by the IRS

The Internal Revenue Service is seeking more than $700 million in tax penalties from Jackson's estate, and after a U.S. Tax Court challenge last month from the estate, the government has now released valuations on everything from the car to his business interests and property.

Programs of Interest

Time for Everyone, The Origins, Evolution, and Future of Public Time, November 7-9, 2013. This unique symposium offers the opportunity to learn about the origins, evolution, and future of public time from some of the foremost authorities in many branches of time measurement. From its natural cycles in astronomy, to its biological evolution, to how the brain processes it differently at various stages of life and under different circumstances, to how we find it, measure it, keep it, this symposium will explore many facets of this fascinating subject of unfathomable depth. The program has been designed for a diverse audience and the speakers carefully chosen not only for their knowledge, but also for their ability to bring their subjects to life. The Key note address “Time, Einstein, and the Coolest Stuff in the Universe” will be presented by William D. Phillips, Nobel Laureate, National Institute of Standards and Technology, Gaithersburg, Maryland.

A not to be missed exhibition of a world-class collection of clocks by one of the greatest clockmakers of all time, Thomas Tompion (1639 – 1713 will be held in conjunction with the symposium. Approximately seventeen examples of Tompion's clocks, watches, and sundials will highlight the superb craftsmanship of this master clockmaker from the Great Age of British clocks. You won't see this kind of collection again even in the British Museum! If you can't make the Symposium, the clock exhibit will be free and open to the public on Friday and Saturday. For security reasons, information on the location of the exhibition will be announced at a later date. If you are interested in attending the exhibition please let DeborahAnn know via email.
